GROW'S FINANCE TALK

McKinley Protective Tariff and Present Customs Law Compared.

DEPLETED GOLD RESERVE.

Greenbacks Would Not Menace the Reserve, Said the ex-Speaker, If There Was a Sufficient Revenue—First Bill to Pass the Senate—Peffer Talks Against Extravagant Congressional Funerals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Ex-Speaker Grow (Rep., Pa.) made a speech in the house yesterday of almost an hour on the portion of the president's message referring to the tariff, in which he compared the old protection tariff laws with the new customs laws. He showed that the new law up to Dec. 1 had produced a deficiency of $131,000,000, while under protection measures from 1890 to 1893, the revenues had exceeded the expenditures by $1,310,000,000. He attributed the depletion of the gold reserve to the payment of current deficiencies out of the reserve, and maintained that the greenbacks would not menace the reserve if there was sufficient revenue. It being apparent that Secretary Carlisle's report would not be ready this week, the house adjourned over until Monday.

Proceedings in the Senate.
The proceedings of the senate yesterday were more varied than interesting. They covered the entire range of legislation, from the introduction of petitions, bills and resolutions to the passage of bills, and included two formal addresses. A bill extending the Chicago port of entry so as to cover the state of Illinois received the final endorsement of the senate. Having already passed the house the bill probably will be the first bill of the Fifty-fourth congress to become a law. Almost an hour of the session was devoted to listening to a speech by Senator Peffer in advocacy of his bill curtailing the expenses incurred in congressional funerals and providing that a sergeant-at-arms shall take the place of the committee now sent out by the two houses as escorts to their homes of the remains of the deceased members.

Senator Frye yesterday introduced his bill for the settlement of the Pacific railroad indebtedness. This bill is based upon an investigation made six years ago by the committee of which Senator Frye was chairman. It provides for incorporating the roads and branches in one general company and giving a mortgage to the government on the whole property with bonds running 100 years with gradual increasing interest, beginning on the first 10 years at 1 per cent and increasing to 2 per cent.

CRIME IN THE QUAKER CITY.

Investigation of the Senate Committee Reveals Rotteness in Philadelphia.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—There has perhaps never been an occasion in this city when the prevalence of vice, immorality and crime has been so prominently brought before the public as at yesterday's session of the senate investigating committee, when Lawyer Pettit resumed the inquiry into the police bureau. Evidence was given in a general way indicating that houses of ill-fame, speakeasies, policy shops and opium "joints" flourish in the police districts in the slums under the very eyes of the patrolmen, with apparently little interruption.

Rev. Dr. Gibbons, a Presbyterian clergyman living in the slum district in the Fifth ward, drew a most harrowing picture of the condition of things there. Immorality in all shapes and forms was openly visible, and had defied the efforts of the best citizens to stamp it out. The vicious class, he said, seemed to be protected by a powerful political influence that controlled the elections. He knew of policemen who had made efforts to better affairs who were discharged from the force.

A general idea of the condition of things in "Chinatown" was given by John Duke. Opium dens were abundant, gambling everywhere and Chinamen consorted with the most degraded of white women. All this under the eyes of the police. At one time, he said, 22 gambling tables were operated in this section, and $15 from each of them was laid aside each week for the police, he understood.

News came here yesterday that Louis Shade, the third victim, living six miles southeast of here, got his left hand tangled up in the machinery of a husker and had the entire arm cut to pieces. The injury may terminate fatally.

Pioneer Western Man Passes Away.

They were taken from a berth in a sleeper by two patrolmen and locked up in the station house.

Editor Wilson Gets Two Years.

MORE WORK OF GHOULS.

Twenty-One Out of Thirty Kansas Graves Examined Were Found Empty.

TOPEKA, Dec. 13.—J. L. Cuthbert, a reputable citizen, came to Topeka last night and reported 30 graves were examined in Rochester and the Catholic cemeteries yesterday afternoon and that 21 of them were empty. The medical college was without students yesterday, all of them having left the city in fear of mob violence. Governor Morrill has offered a reward of $300 for the grave robbers.

TWO STRIKES SETTLED.

Housemen and Bridgemen and the Electrical Wiremen Return to Work.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—After a struggle which has lasted for nearly four weeks the strike of the housemen has been settled. At a meeting of the executive committee of the Housemen's and Bridgemen's union held late last night at Clarendon hall the strike was formally declared off and the men were notified to report for work again today to their respective employers. The terms of the settlement were not made public. The general strike of electrical wiremen belonging to the Electrical Wiremen's union against the employment of nonunion men by the Western Electric company and Tucker Electric company was settled yesterday. The nonunion men were discharged and the strikers returned to work.

TWO RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

Engineer Killed and a Railroad Director Probably Fatally Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—The southwestern express on the Pennsylvania road was wrecked last night before it got out of the city. At full speed it struck a freight caboose, wrecking the locomotive and several cars. Engineer John Shenberger of this city was killed. Two coaches of a Philadelphia and Reading passenger train jumped the track at Norristown last night and turned over on their sides. Thirty-five passengers were in the cars, but no one was killed. The most seriously injured person is Colonel James Boyd, one of the directors of the Philadelphia and Reading company. He may not recover.

He has not decided upon the date when he will make his next departure for the United States. Thousands at the Guadalupe Shrine.

The troops policed the road and despite the enormous throng there was no disturbance. The Indians were permitted freely to enter the church and offer candles as in former years. The pilgrims came from all parts of the country, and the Indians in their distinctive garb made a picturesque spectacle.

JUDGE THURMAN DEAD

End Comes Peacefully to the Aged Ohio Jurist and Statesman.

UNCONSCIOUS AT THE LAST.

Fatal Illness Brought on by a Heavy Fall While Walking Across His Library Floor—Son and Family Present at the Last Scene—Incidents of an Honorable and Successful Career.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 13.—Death closed the long and useful career of Allen G. Thurman, jurist and statesman, yesterday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock.

Judge Thurman has lived with his son, Allen W. Thurman, since the death of his wife several years ago, and being unable to leave the house he occupied apartments in the second story of the residence, where he spent the last days of his life in a remarkably pleasant and agreeable manner.

The beginning of Judge Thurman's fatal illness dates from Nov. 7 last, when he fell heavily while walking across the library floor. Since the accident he has had his good days and his bad ones, but that he was steadily growing weaker was apparent to all, and it had been known for some time that his lease on life could not be protracted much longer.

The change for the worse began at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and from that on he seemed to sink until he passed away. No one was present when the last scene came save Judge Thurman's son, Allen W., and the members of his immediate family. The judge had been unconscious for some hours, and when death finally came it was like a calm and peaceful sleep.

It was decided last night to have the funeral services at the residence at 10 o'clock in the morning. While the services will be as private as possible, in deference to public sentiment all who desire will be given an opportunity to view the remains. Rev. J. L. Grover, aged 89, for the past 22 years city librarian, will preach the sermon.

Allen Granberry Thurman was born Nov. 13, 1813, in Lynchburg, Va., his father being a minister of the Methodist church and his mother the only daughter of Colonel Nathaniel Allen. His mother's half brother, William Allen, but seven years older than himself, walked from Lynchburg to Chillicothe, O., in 1822, and soon attained such prominence as a lawyer and orator that at the early age of 26 he was elected to congress, beating the popular

ALLEN G. THURMAN.

Whig governor of the state, Duncan McArthur, by one vote, and only four years later he was elected United States senator. The nephew went to Chillicothe with his parents in 1819 and that place was his home till 1853, when he moved to Columbus.

His mother was his best teacher even to the time he entered the Chillicothe academy, and used often to sit up with him to a very late hour directing and assisting him in his lessons. It is quite a surprise to read also that her reason for this devoted assistance was that "Allen was a frail and very delicate child." He was therefore allowed a great deal of liberty in his play and was encouraged in athletic sports. Indeed he became an enthusiastic admirer of athletic games and contests of all kinds, and encouraged his own son in that line, giving valuable prizes for athletic feats. The story is told that his son, Allen W. Thurman, once knocked out his teacher, which so delighted the old judge that he presented him $1,000 in cash. It is certain that from good training or other cause he became a very stalwart man.

Leaving the academy at 18, he served for a short time as an assistant in land surveying, then studied law with his uncle, William Allen, and at 21 became private secretary to Governor Robert Lucas, who was, according to old Ohioans, "excessively industrious and a trifle severe." The secretary also read law at old times with Judge Swayne of Columbus, and in 1835 located in Chillicothe as the partner of his uncle.

The city and surrounding country had developed greatly and prospered mightily; the "flush times" of 1834-36 had set everything to booming; "Uncle Bill" Allen had entered congress and was deep in politics; the Allens and Thurmans and their friends and relatives were among the most prosperous, and so there was not only much business for the firm, but the junior partner had most of it to do. However, the firm was broken up by the entrance of the uncle to the United States senate, and in 1844 Mr. Thurman was elected to the house.

On the 1st of December, 1845, he entered the Twenty-ninth congress as its youngest member, just as his uncle had entered the senate the youngest man ever chosen to that body. All through the lives of uncle and nephew runs this curious parallelism—a very close connection in business and politics, which is all the more remarkable by reason of the contrast in other respects between the two. Even the titles descended. Senator William Allen was long known as "The Old Roman," and when he retired the title was at once bestowed on Judge Thurman.

Two years in congress seems to have served as a rest to Judge Thurman. His health, which had been impaired by hard work, grew better. He declined a re-nomination, and in 1847 returned to the law for four years more.

In 1851 he was elected to the supreme bench of the state and served thereon till 1856, the last year as chief justice. His opinions—to be found in the first five volumes of "Ohio State Reports"—are models of clear statement and logical adherence to elementary law. In no other department was his greatness so generally recognized as in this. The senator, the politician, the candidate for vice president may be harshly criticised, but "Judge" Thurman always commanded respect.

His domestic life was singularly happy. Judge Thurman and his wife, to whom he was married in 1844, remained lovers through all their days of wedlock. She was the daughter of Walter Dun, a wealthy merchant of Chillicothe. Her death two years ago was a great loss to the judge, since which time he had kept quite secluded.

Judge Thurman's position during the war was thus stated by himself at a late date: "I did all I could to help to preserve the Union without a war, but after it began I thought there was but one thing to do, and that was to fight it out. I therefore sustained all constitutional measures that tended in my judgment to put down the rebellion. I never believed in the doctrine of secession."

In 1867 Judge Thurman was nominated by the Democrats of Ohio for governor, against Rutherford B. Hayes. The result was simply astounding. The Republican majority for some years previous had been over 40,000, yet after a superheated campaign General Hayes' majority was less than 3,000 and the legislature elected was Democratic on joint ballot. Judge Thurman barely missed the governorship, but as soon as the legislature convened he received the far higher honor of the senatorship.

His earnest opponent, Hon. James G. Blaine, has given him this high compliment: "His rank in the senate was established from the day he took his seat and was never lowered during the period of his service. He was an admirably disciplined debater, was fair in his method of statement, logical in his argument, honest in his conclusions. He had no tricks in discussion, no catch phrases to secure attention, but was always direct and manly. His mind was not preoccupied and engrossed with political contests or with affairs of state."

Early in 1876 the name of Thurman became prominent in connection with the presidency, but he was a pronounced "hard money man," and it was not his year in Ohio. The next winter in the senate he took strong ground in favor of the electoral commission, and the issue of that method of settling the dispute as to the presidency caused him an apparent loss of popularity with his party for a time. In the senate, however, he was early first, and when his party obtained a majority he was chosen to preside in the absence of Vice President Wheeler. In 1889 he received the vote of Ohio and some votes from other states in the Democratic convention to nominate for the presidency, and in 1894 he again received some votes. His defeat in the campaign of 1888 for the vice presidency is fresh in the public memory.

He served in the Ohio legislature, was a presidential elector when Lincoln was elected and was three times sent to congress from his district.

RICHMOND, Ind., Dec. 13.—A continuance was granted until Dec. 22 in the case of John K. Smith, the bank cashier of Cambridge City, arrested for opening a letter addressed to Mrs. John L. Boyd. The friends of Mr. Smith say there is no question of his innocence of any criminal intent, as the letter in question came to the bank with a batch of the regular mail and was opened by mistake. He says he immediately indorsed the envelope as "opened by mistake" and remailed it.

The letter in question contained some instructions from her attorney about a divorce suit instituted by Mrs. Boyd, whose husband is a relative of Mr. Smith and also a director in the Cambridge City bank.

The capitalization of the Consolidated company is $1,500,000, and a mortgage of $1,500,000 has been filed to cover the bonds of the company. It is stated that the Cleveland syndicate will expend at once $300,000 in improving the property, extensions and additional equipment being intended.

THE STANTON CASE.

The Plaintiff Given a Divorce. A Severe
Lecture to Both Parties.

There was no victory for either party in the Stanton divorce case which closed this morning with the rendering of the verdict of the court. Judge McGregor said it was unfortunate, considering the condition of the parties, their education and surroundings and everything that they could not live together. He reviewed the evidence and stated he had read the depositions and that they were of a like nature. He stated that there was very little evidence to show that there had been cruel or inhuman treatment upon the part of the defendant and that he held each of them equally in fault. He censured the husband for being cold and indifferent and he also blamed the wife for listening to tattlers and gossipers and becoming suspicious of her husband. The judge further said that he under the evidence could refuse a divorce to either of the parties but he was of the opinion that they could not reconcile their troubles and live together; that the court was naturally upon the side of the lady, however, and though he considered them equally to blame, he would grant the divorce to the wife. He further said that had there been any children he would have given no divorce.

Upon the question of alimony the judge said the evidence showed that Mr Stanton had property to the amount of $1285, accumulated during his married life, and that Mrs. Stanton was in possession of $650 in household furniture and had been allowed $250 court expenses making a total of $900; the defendant would have the costs of the case to bear which would reduce his property to about $1000. The difference between the $900 of the plaintiff and the $1000 of the defendant amounting to $100, was awarded to the plaintiff as alimony. The judge added that if the plaintiff had been without fault he would have required the defendant to make a suitable allowance out of his salary for her. The result is a divorce for plaintiff, $100 alimony and the change of plaintiff's name from Mrs. Stanton to Bertha Darnall.

Judge McGregor's remarks in giving his verdict were complimented by many of the hearers and the verdict is regarded by many who heard the evidence as a very fair one.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and in foreign lands. The new almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also firely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all newstands for 25 c. This fine almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well known and deservedly popular paper, Word and Works. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects should subscribe for the Word and Works. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to Word and Works Publishing Co., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of Word and Works, 10 cents.

We did last week just what we said we would do—crowded one week's sales into each and every day. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

We set the example and others made a desperate effort to follow by putting some Boy's 33 size satin suits and overcoats in their windows at prices the same as our Men's sizes that are finely tailored, elegantly trimmed and far superior as to workmanship—they fail in disgust. OURS will bear inspection, examine these goods, the way they are gotten up, try them on and see how they fit, and you will very soon make up your mind that The Model is the leading clothing, Gents' Furnishing and Hat House in Greencastle.Remember Your Friends,

Believers Strengthened.

The sermon last night by Mr. Boyer at the Christian church on "The Impregnable Rock of Scripture" was a grand and successful defence of the Bible. It was intended for agnostics. One of the class remarked as he was leaving, "That was the best thing I ever heard on that subject." The faith of all believers was greatly strengthened. No mere outline can do justice to the sermon. All positions taken were simply sustained by unanswerable arguments, and the brilliant rhetoric of the speaker threw a wonderful halo around the "Old Book." All available space was taken. Two after meetings were held one in the library room and the other in the main audience room. There were two additions and one baptism. Seven were immersed at the afternoon service.

Chart sermon tonight. Subject: "The Church in the Wilderness and the Way Out." Hear this great sermon if possible.

Every Article in this Great Stock at just

1-2 PRICE.

Every business man in this country will acknowledge that this year has been a very dull year, and although my business has been very large (being twenty five per cent above the average) yet I have several thousand dollars worth of goods more than I wish to carry over to next year, and rather than do so have decided to offer my entire stock at above price. Many will try to make you believe that in order to make such prices I have raised the price; in answer to this I would say that I have not changed the price of an article in my entire stock. All goods are marked in plain figures and after buying an article if you don't find the regular price (say nothing about the one-half off) lower than same goods will cost you elsewhere, you can return the same and receive your money, also please remember that you are not buying of a stranger. I have been in business in Greencastle for twenty-one years and will back what I say by my reputation. I quote a few prices on some articles and all others will be sold at same rate.
